December 17, 2014 ~ Sunshine Early Learning Center

Sunshine Early Learning provided over 300 gently used and new coats to their center's children. December 2, 2014 is National Give Day and Sunshine Early Learning Center wanted to take this day to give back to their families. Through participation from the community and in collaboration with the Center for Children and Families (CCF) at Georgetown University, each family who attends the center received a coat for their child.

The Georgetown University basketball team along with their coach, John Thompson III, helped to distribute the coats to the children. This charitable event was covered by Fox5 News as well as Radio One and 93.9 WKYS. The children were very excited as they received their coats and met members of the Georgetown basketball team. Coach Thompson even stopped to read a book to the energetic classrooms.
