7:00 PM

Honoring the accomplishments of members of the Department and our community partners for their outstanding efforts over the past year

DAR Constitution Hall
18th and D Streets, NW
Washington, DC

Charles H. Ramsey
Chief of Police

Anthony A. Williams
Mayor
In 1790, Maryland and Virginia ceded portions of their territory for the purpose of establishing the Federal City. For the next 10 years, the Federal City was policed by constables appointed by these two states. In 1802, when the original charter of Washington was approved, police authority was centralized and power was granted to the city itself to establish patrols, impose fines, and establish inspection and licensing procedures. Until the creation of the Metropolitan Police Department in 1861, the city had only an auxiliary watch with one captain and 15 policemen.

In 1861, President Abraham Lincoln took personal interest in founding a regular police department for the District of Columbia. It was a time of constant danger in the Nation’s Capital. With the beginning of the Civil War, an army was billeted in the city, government employees were increased by ten-fold, and hordes of unsavory elements descended upon the District’s few square miles. President Lincoln personally dispatched an emissary from the newly created Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners to New York City to become familiar with that system, which itself was based on the world-acclaimed Metropolitan London Police Department.

The ideas and knowledge gained from this study led to the creation of the Metropolitan Police Department on August 6, 1861. In September of that year, attorney William B. Webb was appointed the first Superintendent of the Police, with an authorized force of 10 sergeants and a number of patrolmen as needed, but not to exceed 150. Up to 10 precincts were authorized. The Superintendent of Police was paid $1,500 annually, with sergeants earning $600 and patrolmen $480.

The sergeants and most of the personnel for two precincts were sworn in that September. Officers had to be US citizens, able to read and write the English language, have been DC residents for two years, never convicted of a crime, between 25 and 45 years of age, and at least five feet, six inches tall. The men went to work right away in 12-hour shifts, seven days a week with no days off and no vacations. They were issued neither equipment nor badges, and they had to obtain their own handguns. The first arrest made by a Metropolitan Police officer was on a charge of intoxication.
Presented to MPDC sworn or civilian members who perform an act of exceptional bravery, above and beyond the call of duty, with the awareness of the possibility that the act could result in great bodily harm or death to themselves. As the premier award of the Metropolitan Police Department, this honor is bestowed upon members only in conjunction with an award of the Medal of Valor and/or the Blue Badge Award.

Detective Robert Saunders
Superintendent of Detectives Division, First District Detectives’ Office

Detective Robert Saunders has been described by his lieutenant as consistently displaying all of the qualifications necessary to be regarded as one of the best detectives in the MPD — indeed, in the entire profession. He is — at the same time — knowledgeable, thorough, tenacious, creative, professional and compassionate.

Working out of the First District Detectives’ Office, Detective Saunders always seems to make himself available — day or night — to assist his supervisors and his peers. Over the past year, he has been assigned to, or involved with, some of the most complicated and highest-profile serious crimes in 1D. Last January, for example, he came in on his day off to assist with the investigation of an afternoon shooting on G Street, SE. Before the night was over, he had secured an arrest warrant for the suspect and a search warrant for his home. Shortly thereafter, the suspect turned himself in.

Among other cases, Detective Saunders closed a brutal attack and robbery of an ANC Commissioner in Southwest, as well as a pattern of nearly a dozen street robberies in Northeast. He was also instrumental in piecing together the successful investigation of the robberies and sexual assault that took place in and around the National Mall this past summer. He was part of the team that obtained and executed search warrants in the case. And during his interrogation, one defendant confessed to four robberies in 1D.

Officer Arthur Hopper
Fifth District

This year’s awardee is a relative newcomer to the force — he joined the MPD in 2003. But during his still young career — and certainly over the past year — Officer Arthur Hopper has distinguished himself through his impressive arrest activity, his exemplary problem-solving skills and his commitment to community policing.

Assigned to the first watch in PSA 504, Officer Hopper was responsible for arresting 28 felons for serious crimes — 28 felons who were prosecuted by the US Attorney’s Office. He was personally responsible for arresting 11 suspects on CPWL charges — carrying a pistol without a license.

Officer Hopper is eager and resourceful. When 5D was confronted with crime and disorder problems occurring around a lounge on 5th Street, NE, he asked to be assigned to the area so he could address the problem. Using his problem-solving skills, he developed a plan with club management and other PSA officers to disperse the patrons after closing time — and arrest those who continued to cause trouble.

And when he learned that another club was applying for a liquor license and planned to open in a residential neighborhood — against the community’s wishes — he reached out to the residents, heard their concerns and explained the process for them to get involved. With strong opposition from the community, the ABC Board denied the license.
For police officials in today’s “information age” … the collection and analysis of crime data have become more important than ever before. District commanders and their field supervisors rely on data analysis to know when and where to deploy their resources most effectively … and to measure what impact they are having on crime problems.

Glenn Duncan has consistently gone above and beyond the call of duty in helping officials in the Third District get on top of — and address — emerging crime patterns.

In particular, this individual’s efforts in tracking robbery patterns were — according to 3-D Commander Larry McCoy — invaluable in successfully apprehending suspects in several armed robberies.

Through his accurate, dependable and on-time work, Mr. Duncan has demonstrated a genuine concern for making the District of Columbia — and especially the Third District — a safer place for residents and guests.

Reserve Officer Kenneth Washington certainly reflects the energy and dedication of the man for whom this award is named — a beloved Reserve Officer who was struck and killed by a vehicle, while directing traffic at Wisconsin and M in Georgetown in May 2005.

In the past fiscal year, Reserve Officer Washington volunteered a total of 527 hours to the MPD. That’s the equivalent of more than 10 hours a week — each and every week of the year.

But it’s not just the hours he puts in — it’s the results he produces in helping the MPD serve the community. Over the past year, Reserve Officer Washington assisted on three arrests for serious crimes — two of them, domestic violence, issued 28 NOIs and recovered one stolen auto.

And then there are the literally hundreds of people he touches each year, through his work on neighborhood patrols, on special details and as a station clerk.
