

A young girl with braided hair and pink and white beaded earrings is smiling while holding a large, ripe red apple. She is wearing a bright yellow t-shirt. In the background, another child in a yellow shirt is visible, and the setting is an orchard with green grass and trees bearing fruit.

Growing Healthy Schools Week
October 15-20, 2012

OCTOBER 15-20, 2012

Sign up! Tools and resources at:
growinghealthyschoolsweek.org

DC Farm to School Week + DC School Garden Week =
Growing Healthy Schools Week!

Growing Healthy Schools Week celebrates school gardens and farm to school programs throughout the District. During the week, school staff will work with local non-profits, farms and chefs to coordinate inspiring activities aimed at engaging the broader community, increasing environmental literacy, building program capacity, and connecting students to their food.

Ecology Field Trips • Farmer Visits
Chef Demos • Local Food in the Cafeteria
School Garden Tours • Panel Discussion
Kick-off Chef Competition • Photo Contest

Brought to you by:

