Areas monitored during licensing inspections include:

- Employee records
- Program health and nutrition
- Environmental health and safety requirements, and equipment
- Playground safety
- Policies and procedures
- Records of children enrolled at the facility

Timeframes for providers to make changes:

- 90 days: For a new license application
- 45 days: For a license renewal or other inspections
- Less than 30 days: For more serious violations

Every licensed child care provider will receive monitoring visits to make sure they continue to meet licensing and health and safety requirements.

Providers receive at least one announced visit and one unannounced visit each year. Additional visits may happen at any time.

During the monitoring visit, a licensing specialist checks that the provider has the required documentation for staff, children, and the facility. They also monitor to ensure providers are meeting the environmental health and safety requirements.

If it is a licensing visit, or if the child care space has changed, the licensing specialist inspects the environment.

If the licensing specialist finds problems or violations during the visit, he or she gives the provider a list of things to change or improve. The provider is given a deadline to make changes.

Providers receive at least one announced visit and one unannounced visit each year. Additional visits may happen at any time.
